How high can your business score?

Each new hire impacts a company’s bottom line and its culture. With so much at stake, why hire a person with a disability?

Let us help you count the reasons—and the cash. Grab your calculator, and when prompted by the Cash Meter, add or subtract the suggested amount.

1. Are you a US business?

Yes

You’re off to a good start! Skip ahead to question 2.

No

We’re sorry. This tool was designed for US businesses based on US federal and state programs. But the benefits of hiring people with disabilities extend beyond financial incentives. Visit thinkbeyondthelabel.com to learn more.

2. Are you planning to hire a person with a disability?

Yes

Nice. And smart. The Federal Work Opportunities Tax Credit gives US employers 2,400⁹ compelling reasons to hire a qualified person with a disability.

Image matters. Businesses that promote inclusiveness enjoy a much larger applicant pool to draw from—including younger members of the workforce who prefer more diverse, innovative environments.²
3. Does your business generate less than $1 million annually OR have less than 30 full-time employees?

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>You should like this. The Disabled Access Credit (^3) offers businesses like yours up to $5,000 (^1) to defray the cost of providing access to workers with disabilities.</td>
<td>Sorry. Your business is too large to qualify for this deduction. But there are plenty more chances ahead—starting with question 4.</td>

Employees with disabilities bring unique experiences and perspectives with them to the workplace. Smart businesses have been known to tap into this special know-how to customize products and services, increase profitability and foster innovation.\(^4\)

4. Would hiring a worker with a disability require your business to remove physical, structural or transportation barriers?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Yes</th>
<th>No</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Yep. There's a tax deduction for that, too—the Architectural Barrier Removal Tax Deduction gives you up to $15,000 (^1) per year to cover expenses incurred to remove physical, structural and transportation barriers for employees with disabilities.</td>
<td>That makes it easier. But if requirements change, you may qualify for the Architectural Barrier Removal Tax Deduction, which gives you up to $15,000 (^1) per year to cover expenses incurred to remove physical, structural and transportation barriers for employees with disabilities.</td>

The disability community is the third largest market segment, ahead of African Americans, Hispanics and teens. Nearly 30% of US families have a family member with a disability.\(^5\) That’s a lot of families—and potential customers—whose needs and interests you’ll be accommodating.
The next two cash meter calculations require that you know your new hire’s estimated annual salary. If you don’t know, take a guess. (Keep in mind your cash meter total is an estimate only).

5. Are you recruiting your new hire through a vocational rehabilitation program?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Yes</th>
<th>No</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Good move. Recruiting and training costs can add up to an additional 25% of a new hire’s salary. Businesses that hire through a vocational rehabilitation program may be eligible to recoup those costs.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cash meter: + 25% of new hire’s estimated annual salary</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Formula: New hire’s salary x .25 = X (add result to your total)</td>
<td></td>

Loyalty pays. Replacing an employee can cost over 150% of that employee’s annual salary. Ouch. Here’s a tip: as a group, people with disabilities have higher than average retention rates.

6. Are you planning to hire a veteran with a service-connected disability?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Yes</th>
<th>No</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Nice way to pay it forward. Also, hiring an eligible veteran with a service-connected disability makes you eligible for an added $2,400 Work Opportunity Tax Credit AND a VA reimbursement equaling up to 50% of your new hire’s salary over 6 months.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cash meter: $2,400</td>

What about health care costs, you ask? Won’t they go up? Not likely. Health, life and disability costs rarely rise in response to hiring people with disabilities.
7. Concerned there might be other hiring costs associated with on-boarding a worker with a disability?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Yes</th>
<th>No</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A new hire is always an investment. But if an employee with a disability requires any accommodations, 56% cost nothing to make. The rest typically cost around $500.</td>
<td></td>

So, what’s the catch to all this? We can’t find one. Research shows that employees with disabilities are as on-time, productive and capable as any other type of employee. And the diversity they bring to the workplace spurs innovation and inspires customer loyalty.

And that’s it! If you haven’t hit the equal sign, do so now. That total could be beefing up your bottom line. And that warm glow you felt after reading each of those Culture Cultivator facts? That’s what a more inclusive business feels like.
