

High School Opportunity Map

This opportunity mapping tool is intended to provide an example of how information about classes and extracurricular activities can be compiled. Compiling comprehensive information into one document or web-based location can assist teachers and students with disabilities when considering classes and extracurricular activities available.

Opportunity Mapping can be an effective way to assess classes and activities that have not been offered to students with disabilities, but that could open opportunities to learn and be engaged in the school community along-side peers without disabilities.

Please take a few minutes to read through the entire survey prior to filling it out.

14. What is or could be done to increase participation by students with significant disabilities in the various opportunities offered at the school?

Yes, this happens at the school	Seems like a good idea to try
---------------------------------	-------------------------------

General educators make suggestions for a particular student based on interest area(s)
General educators present information to students and ask what they might want to try
Intentional discussions at IEP-PTP meetings about the variety of opportunities available

Parents are provided with information about courses and activities and make suggestions (send home catalogs/lists)
Special educators make recommendations for particular student based on interest area (s)
Special educators present information to students on a regular basis and ask what they might want to try
Students with significant disabilities are provided experiential opportunities to attend a variety of activities
Students without disabilities invite students with significant disabilities to attend classes and activities

Please provide any additional thoughts or ideas for increasing participation by students with significant disabilities:

Questions for Reflection

These questions were developed based on feedback from school personnel after completing the survey. They are intended to assist support teams and educators to move forward in their efforts to more fully include students with significant disabilities in general education classes and extracurricular activities.

15. Which activities at our school are truly shared?

16. Which factors support such activities?

17. What barriers exist to the participation of students with disabilities in some activities?

18. What changes could we make to increase the number of inclusive activities?

19. Who could we engage as partners to help increase the range and quality of activities?

20. How will we measure the success of our efforts?

OPPORTUNITY MAPPING NEXT STEPS

1. Does a full list of options available at our school already exist or does that need to be created?
2. What classes and activities currently include students with significant disabilities?
3. What action steps will increase participation of one or more students with significant disabilities?
4. Who will help set targets, develop and implement action steps, and track progress?
